

PROHIBITION, NOTHING! JACK DEMPSEY IS AT THE BAR AGAIN—YOU TELL 'IM, PRUNES

JACK DEMPSEY STARTS GREATEST BATTLE IN HISTORY OF THE RING BY FACING CHARGES OF SLACKER

NO CHAMPION in any division, or at any time since the beginning of boxing, ever started to wage so crucial and important a battle as that of William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, conqueror of Jess Willard and present heavyweight title holder of the world. The scene of Dempsey's present battle, which virtually was a "life or death" for the big fellow in the pugilistic world, is laid in San Francisco, and the going for the opening round sounded yesterday.

JACK DEMPSEY

Following this trial of Dempsey, the joint prosecution of the champion and his manager, Jack Kearns, will be made on an indictment charging both with conducting a conspiracy whereby the boxer would avoid the call to service.

Although Dempsey was a heavy champion when he pummeled the much bigger and heavier Willard into fast oblivion on the Fourth of July, 1919, it was not until some time after that ring historic date that fingers of condemnation were pointed at the new title-holder. Different parts of the American Legion in various sections of the country came out with public statements branding Dempsey as a draft dodger and "slacker."

However, after almost a dozen posts had gone on record with such charges, an official statement came out of Indianapolis, headquarters of the American Legion, that it would not investigate the charges made that Dempsey tried to evade the military service by becoming a shipyard worker.

Colonel Franklin D'Olier, a Philadelphia and national commander of the American Legion, said Dempsey's case was not one for that body to take action on; that it was purely a case for the United States courts. "Dempsey's shipyard status," Colonel D'Olier said, "was the result of a local draft board ruling, and we do not review acts of the government."

INTIMATION was made that the legion was too busy perfecting its organization and attending to matters too big to devote any time to charges of slackness against boxers. An offer made by Kearns to hear Dempsey's side of the controversy was turned down because the American Legion was not interested in the case.

Charges Made by Former Wife

DEFINITE action looking toward a federal investigation of Dempsey's case was taken in Frisco on January 29, when E. M. Blanford, chief of the Department of Justice, made report to United States Attorney Annette Adams bearing on the proofs said to be held by the title-holder's former wife, Maxine Dempsey, that he was a slacker.

When it was pointed out that Maxine Dempsey had charged the heavyweight boxer with inducing her to sign an affidavit showing that he was supporting himself in reality she was supporting herself, as she said, Assistant Attorney C. W. Thomas, of San Francisco, said: "Dempsey is either a slacker or he should be completely exonerated. He can rest assured that he will get a square deal from me."

Besides saying that she had letters and other documents to prove Dempsey was a slacker at the time when his country needed him most, Maxine Dempsey declared the statement set forth in his questionnaire that he was employed in a shipyard was merely an additional ruse to avoid getting into uniform.

Thereupon the matter was taken up with the Department of Justice and an investigation resulted. Previous to this Dempsey, through his manager, telegraphed the Army, Navy and Civilian Board of Housing Control in New York asking for a complete investigation of his activities while hostilities were on.

It was pointed out by Kearns that the A. N. C. B. R. had issued a professional boxer's license to Dempsey just prior to his victory over Willard, which certified that he had a clean and honorable record and that he had the full sanction and approval of the board.

Grand Jury Begins Investigation

ON FEBRUARY 25 Dempsey and Kearns were charged in a true bill voted by the federal grand jury in San Francisco with having conspired to have the former saved from the draft during the war. The voting of the true bill came after numerous letters written by Dempsey to Maxine Dempsey had been placed in evidence.

As a result of documents obtained, the grand jury began an investigation of charges by the United States attorney that Frank Spellman, representative of a Los Angeles moving-picture company that had Dempsey under contract, had procured himself when called before that body as a witness for the government.

Communications from Spellman to Kearns, as introduced before the grand jury, were declared to refute alleged testimony of Spellman that he had never communicated with Kearns, either by telegraph or letter, in regard to the Dempsey letters, of which the federal authorities had ascertained, it was asserted, he tried to obtain possession.

It was on February 27 that Dempsey and Kearns finally were indicted by the grand jury in Frisco on charges that they had conspired to have the boxer saved from the selective draft. A second indictment against Dempsey charged actual evasion of the draft. Warrants were sworn out for their arrest and their bonds fixed at $1000. Later date for trial was set.

AND now, beginning yesterday, Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, in one corner, and the blind lady in the other, have started a fight—only that the blind lady is Dempsey for all time of his life. He is found to be guilty. There is hardly any doubt that the boxer would be barred in almost every boxing center in the United States if Dempsey fails to clear himself.

Would Never Be Able to Box Again

THE stamp of "slacker," in the event of his guilt, would be impossible for Dempsey to erase; not only would he have difficulty in getting matches in this country, but the chances are that he would be overlooked in England and France if he were to go overseas in search of battles. Dempsey must prove his innocence or else there will be only one thing left for him to do—to retire from the game, go into theastic discard and oblivion.

On the other hand, if the evidence proves that Dempsey was not a slacker, then Jack will be in line for all sorts of purses. Dempsey's first contest, as heavyweight champion, if he is to box again, probably will be with Georges Carpentier, European title-holder and idol of France.

Recently Kearns came East for an interview with Francis Desamps, Carpentier's manager, and Jack Curly, a promoter, after which an announcement was made that Dempsey would defend his crown against the foreigner thirty days following the trial, providing the champion was acquitted of the slacker charge.

When Carpentier was in Philadelphia several weeks ago, to fill an exhibition contract at the Olympia, it was learned that the Frenchman's real intention in coming to America was to box for the world's title.

Furthermore, Carpentier said that the reason so strenuous campaign was being waged to force Dempsey into a battle with him was because of the trouble Jack had. But just as soon as Dempsey was cleared of the charges in question he would make a diligent plea for a match.

THE event of a contest between Dempsey and Carpentier, such a match will be decided some place in the United States. Dempsey already has indicated that he would not go abroad to appear in the international ring.

ORANGE NET STAR IN SEMIFINAL

Mrs. Mills Defeats Mrs. Harvey in Second Round of Delaware Tennis

By SPICK HALL

Wilmington Country Club, Wilmington, June 9.—Mrs. David Mills, of the Orange, N. J., Tennis Club, today entered the semifinal round of the women's Delaware state championship.

In advancing Mrs. Mills eliminated Mrs. Gilbert A. Harvey, of the Philadelphia Country Club, in straight sets, 7-5, 7-5. The victor will meet Miss Marion H. Zinderstein, of Longwood, in the semifinal tomorrow.

Another Philadelphia player was eliminated in the second round today when Miss Leslie Hancock, of Longwood, defeated Miss Mary Wiener, of Germantown, 6-2, 6-3.

In the first round of doubles Miss Gertrude Ostermeier and Miss Helen Sewell, Huntington Valley, defeated Mrs. Charles F. Rudolph, of Wilmington, and Mrs. E. E. Bailey, Baltimore.

The feature doubles match today was the tilt between Mrs. M. B. Huff, Philadelphia Country Club, and Mrs. Harvey against the Longwood pair—Miss Zinderstein and Miss Edith Sigourney.

Only One Match

Yesterday Miss Zinderstein had an easy day. She had only one singles match, that with her club chum and doubles partner, Miss Sigourney, Longwood.

Miss Zinderstein did not exert herself at all, but she easily got the better of her little partner by the count of 6-3, 6-2. And Miss Sigourney is a regular player, at that. Miss Zinderstein's game yesterday showed that she has developed it into a well-rounded one, and one which will carry her far.

Her service is sharp and she places it well. Her second delivery, while not quite as speedy as her first, is a far better one than the average woman player's.

At the net Miss Zinderstein volleys excellently. While she does not slam them overhead with the same abandon that characterizes Miss Ann Tower's net game, her volleys are sharply hit, and it is easy to see that she has been watching R. N. Williams's forecourt work.

All Strokes Sound

As for her backcourt game, Miss Zinderstein has every attribute to make the championship performer. She has sound strokes, both fore and backhand. Not only that, but she can use the chop, a very necessary stroke at times, and one which is overlooked almost universally by our women players of Philadelphia. In many of the matches played in the tournaments of suburban Philadelphia this season, a player who

Mrs. Gavin and Miss Gordon Win Matches in Griscom Cup Contest

By SPICK HALL

New York and Boston split even in the first two matches for the Griscom golf cup today at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, St. Martin's.

Mrs. J. Gavin, of New York, defeated Miss H. Gordon, of Boston, 2 and 1, and Miss Elizabeth Gordon, of Boston, defeated Miss Georgeanna Blinn, of New York, 2 and 1.

The cards for the first match follow: Mrs. Gavin, 1; Miss Gordon, 2. The second match followed: Mrs. Gordon, 1; Miss Blinn, 2.

The teams were made up as follows: Boston—Mrs. H. Gordon, Miss E. Gordon, Miss G. Blinn, Miss M. Gordon, Miss J. Gordon, Miss K. Gordon, Miss L. Gordon, Miss N. Gordon, Miss O. Gordon, Miss P. Gordon, Miss Q. Gordon, Miss R. Gordon, Miss S. Gordon, Miss T. Gordon, Miss U. Gordon, Miss V. Gordon, Miss W. Gordon, Miss X. Gordon, Miss Y. Gordon, Miss Z. Gordon.

New York's team won the championship last year at Appawamus, Philadelphia won from Boston, 12-9, and New York also beat the Bostonians decisively the next day. Philadelphia met the Metropolitan in the final and was beaten.

New York was a decided favorite to win and is the favorite for the Griscom Cup again. The team went out today minus Miss Marion Hollins, who won the Metropolitan championship last year, and is now abroad chasing championships.

But a number of additions have been made which considerably strengthen the team's chances, though Boston has a strong line-up also.

Mrs. Hammer and Miss Bouann both played well at Pinehurst in the North and South.

Two Englishwomen, Mrs. Knight and Miss Airey, are both finished players of fine caliber. They scored well in the eastern and will be dangerous opponents for Boston today.

The place was at eighteen holes match play. Boston had Miss Gordon, the little Scotch girl, who finished third for the title and is the Rhode Island champion. She has a fine temperament for the game, and has a most excellent assortment of shots.
